

Hülya Turgut

Dr. Hülya Turgut is an architect and currently Professor at the Faculty of Architecture in Istanbul Maltepe University and She gives lectures about culture and space studies in post-graduate courses of Istanbul Technical University. Her main research interests focus on “socio-cultural issues in Architectural design education”; and culture and space studies, particularly on the meaning and use of home. Much of her recent research focuses on globalization and its effect on new housing trends; and urban transformation and revitalization projects. She has completed various architectural projects, competition prizes, researches and her writings have been published nationally and internationally. She is co-coordinator of the IAPS-CSBE ‘Culture and Space in the Built Environment’ Network; under the framework of this network, she has been chairing “International Culture and Space Symposium series”and organizing “Culture and Space Design Workshops and Student Competitions”. Dr.Turgut is also co-editors of IAPS-CSBE Network Book Series.

E-mail: turguth1@gmail.com

