

Roderick Lawrence

PhD, Founding Coordinator of the IAPS Housing Network. Roderick Lawrence is Professor at the Faculty of Economic and Social Sciences at the University of Geneva, Switzerland. He is Head of the Human Ecology Group at the Institute of Environmental Sciences. He has a Bachelor of Architecture Degree (First Class Honours) from the University of Adelaide, a Master of Letters from the University of Cambridge and a Doctorate of Science from the Ecole Polytechnique Fédérale de Lausanne. His research interests include urban ecology, housing, health and quality of life in cities. He has been a Scientific Advisory to the World Health Organization programmes on Housing and Health and the Healthy Cities project. Since 1997, he has been an Associate Member of the New York Academy of Sciences.

E-mail: Roderick.Lawrence@unige.ch

